GENEALOGY OF THE WYMAN FAMILY.

In the work of collecting the records of the Wyman family we are indebted to the published collections of T. B. Wyman, Jr., of Charlestown, Mass., and Benjamin F. Wyman, of Lancaster, Mass., for the record of the first three generations of our ancestors, in America. From thence we have followed our own branch of the family tree.

We have endeavored to be accurate and thorough in this work, but there may be mistakes, and there are in one or two instances omissions of names and dates, owing to the failure of persons to respond, after repeated solicitations for their record, and we have failed to find any trace of the descendants of one member of the Fifth Generation.

"The name of Wyman is of German derivation, and was originally spelled Weymann. The two individuals first named in this genealogy are the progenitors of the largest portion of the Wymans in this country. The first mention made of them is in Charlestown, Mass., December 18, 1640, as signers of the 'town orders,' coeval with the settlement of Woburn."

They, evidently, with other determined men of their time sought refuge in the New World from the persecution of the Old, and chose to brave the dangers and hardships of an unexplored and unbroken wilderness, for the sake of enjoying liberty of conscience, "Freedom to worship God."

As the visitor to the old cemeteries on "the bleak coast where first they trod," reads their names, almost obliterated by time, he will be led to exclaim with the poet :

"Lo! here they rest, who every danger braved, Unmarked, untrophied, mid the land they saved."
